

1. Did anything "stick" with you from this week's sermon?
2. Chad mentioned that we don't always see our own hypocrisy and sin and therefore need other believer's in our lives to confront our thinking and behavior when we are inconsistent and sinful. What does it look like to do this biblically, graciously, lovingly, and truthfully?
3. What makes it so difficult to see our own hypocrisy at times?
4. How do we know when good, spiritual things are doing (spiritual disciplines, church programs and ministries) have become rooted in pride, or have become a source of pride?
